

HEALTHY VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Doctors at the National Institutes of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Maryland, seek healthy volunteers to join a research study. Doctors are investigating the energy spent by the brain when you are performing certain tasks as well as resting. Participants will have a magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and a positron emission tomography (PET) scan of the brain. Participation involves one screening and two outpatient visits for test and procedures.

You may be eligible if you are:

- At least 18 years old
- In good health

You may not participate if you:

- Are pregnant or breast feeding
- Use certain drugs such as marijuana or cocaine
- Have had a head trauma with a loss of consciousness for more than 30 minutes
- Are not able to have an MRI scan

Location: The NIH Clinical Center, America's research hospital, is located on the Metro red line in Bethesda, Maryland.

There is no charge for study-related tests and procedures. Compensation is provided.
